

Interviewer Page

Will Fitzgerald

The interviewer page is meant for a scenario where you will need to check. There are various sub buttons. This page includes: Input File, Output File; we isolated these two uploads, so an interviewer could prep this information and then pass it off to the interviewee to then test them.

For more information on each individual button please refer to their specific guides.

We believe this to be a better alternative to the classical whiteboard tests, because it puts the interviewee into a scenario closer to what they may work with in the future

Also the interviewee page is launched from here, and all information imported at this step is retained throughout the application.

Interviewee Page

Will Fitzgerald

The interviewee page can only be accessed by the interviewer page, this is so that someone can do prep work and then hand off the computer to the interview and allow them to hack away.

The interviewer can choose to upload their own files from a separate ide or edit it in the application itself via our textbox.

The user then can compile the code and compare the outputs in the app.